It chased several dogs and sheep throughout that part of the town and later bit the boy on his hand. The bite was not a deep one, just piercing the skin in one place. The dog, which is owned by a man in a Massachusetts town, was a large black hound, and was running around all day Friday and until Sunday, but was finally caught and killed Sunday afternoon. The head was sent to Middletown for examination. The authorities immediately wired that the dog had hydrophobia. The boy is being cared for at his home by the Pasteur system. ## ARNOLD TRUSTEE

Brings Suit Against C. S. Ander

Arnold Examined for Five Hours. Arneld Examined for Five Hours.

The first witness called by Mr. Torrey was Ernest Mr. Arneld. Mr. Torrey examined him for five hours.

Mr. Arneld testified that from 1992 to June 15, 1910, he was a dealer in stocks and bonds and other investments, with offices at 16 Union street, Putnam, Conn. For seven or eight years nevious to 1902 he acted as pay ordale company, at North Grosvenor dale, of which company the defendant C. S. Andem, is agent.

Three Methods of Doing Business.

Questioned by Attorney Torrey Mr. Arnold stated that he had three regular methods of doing business: First, he bought and sold stocks and bonds on commission as an ordinary broker; second, he took money from his customers, giving his unsecured note at 6 per cent therefor, on what he called a participating account, further agreeing to divide with them any profit made on the investment of their money over and above the 6 per cent guaranteed. Third, he had special accounts, which were the same as the participating accounts, excepting that on special accounts each customer's money was invested separately, while on the participating accounts the money received from a number of customers was invested separately, while on the participating accounts the money received from a number of customers was invested in a lump sum and they shared equally in the net profits, and, according to Mr. Arnold's statments, there were always profits. Throughout the day Mr. Torrey kept up a searching examination of Mr. Arnold, going into the various details of Arnold's business with other peeple as well as with Mr. Andem.

First Dealings in 1906.

Mr. Arnold's first dealings with Mr. Andem took pleas in 1908.

First Dealings in 1906.

Mr. Arnold's first dealings with Mr. Andem took place in 1906 when he bought and sold stocks and bonds for Mr. Andem on commission. A little later Mr. Andem opened a participating account for a small sum. The notes on this account were renewed at intervals of six months until 1908 when Mr. Andem opened a special account. At one time Mr. Arnold apparently paid interest at the rate of 40 per cent. per annum. The transactions between Mr. Andem and Mr. Arnold increased in number and size until the time the mortgage at which time Arnold was indebted to Mr. Andem in a sum somewhat in excess of Questioned as to what interest and profits he usually paid on money left with him, Mr. Arnold said that it averaged about 12 per cent per annum. He denied that he paid one man in Putnam $100 per month for one year on an investment of $500, as profit; but said that there was an understanding between himself and the investor as to what the money was paid for.

Mr. Torrey asked why it was he er creditors to whom he owed large amounts and whose claims were ung secured. Mr. Arnold answered that he knew that Mr. Andem had plenty of money and that if he protected him as to money already advanced he could with better grace call upon him

Salvation Army to Use Schoolhouse.

The town school committee has voted to permit the Salvation Army to hold evening prayer meetings in the Sawyer district schoolhouse until further notice. There was some opposition to permitting the schoolhouse to be used for this purpose, and it is understood that the continuance of such use will largely depend upon the manner in which the evening meetings are conducted.

FOX AND COON.

ints of Same Burrow Which Ha

George Davis and George Young, both of South Woodstock, are telling a story concerning their hunting exploits of Tuesday, which sounds much like the proverbial fish story, but as they have the "goods," the story will have to be taken as one of the most extraordinary in hunting annals in this section of the country.

Messrs. Davis and Young went fox hunting Tuesday in Fyott woods, and ran on to a fresh trail, and soon got sight of Br'er Fox, but much to the surprise of the hunters the fox made for a hole in the ground. A short distance away was another hole, evidently another outlet to the den. The hunters awaited developments, watching the two holes. Soon a great commotion was heard underground and the fox backed hurriedly out of the hole which he had entered and started off full tilt. Mr. Young shot him without difficulty, and as Mr. Davis stepped over to examine the fox, he saw a large coon start out of the other hole, and of course he banged away at it. If it was not for the fact that the fox and the coon are good evidences as to the truth of this story, these hunters might well be considered as candidates for the Ananias club.
